Research vacancy for the project “Facilitating Political Dialogue in the Baltico-Mediterranean Axis”

The project “Facilitating Political Dialogue in the Baltico-Mediterranean Axis” brings together civil society actors from six countries from the Mediterranean and the Baltic Sea regions to enter in dialogue on mobility, culture and environment. The dialogue develops through thematic round-tables facilitated by experts and attended by youth, women, migrants and NGO members from the programme countries, and culminates in a final conference to be held at the end of the programme. The project is co-funded by the Anna Lindh Foundation.

The project leaders aim to recruit a researcher to conduct a light study on the attitudes and prejudices between the Baltic Sea and Mediterranean regions. The study is an independent research which is, however, closely knit to the general goals of the programme and especially to the round table discussions. The researcher’s tasks include the drafting of a questionnaire (together with project coordinator and partner organizations), its distribution in partner countries (in electronic form), assembling and analyzing the results of the survey and writing the final study based on the results of the survey as well as on relevant background information. The study should be carried out between 15 June and 30 September 2010.

Application deadline is 21.5.2010. For more information click here or contact Mr. Mikko Lipsanen email mikko.lipsanen@kehys.fi
